

The Council of Chief State School Officers invites you to a panel discussion on

States Leading in the Age of ESSA

Most states have submitted plans to the U.S. Department of Education outlining how they will implement the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA). Now what? Hear directly from state education chiefs on how they plan to leverage this new federal law to improve outcomes for all kids. Each state will discuss how they plan to take advantage of the new flexibility in the new law and the challenges they are facing in implementation.
